Wagner Appeals For Passage of British Aid Bill

New York Democrat
Feels Enactment
Would Safeguard
Nation Against Axis
May Add Clause
Strategists Considering Amendment Against
Use of Forces

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.) appealed today for enactment of the British aid bill. He declared an Axis triumph would imperil the western hemisphere and the United States.

"If the Axis powers win abroad they will have won a partial victory over us as well, because imperative military necessities would make such a vast drain upon our resources and manpower as to undermine our economy, our standard of life, and possibly our form of government."

The New Yorker added his arguments for prompt action to those of Senator Schwartz (D-Wyo.) who took the Senate sharply to task for the amount of time it had spent discussing the legislation.

"We are now killing time," Schwartz chided, "while the Germans are killing English women and children, and the aged and infirm."

Administration strategists, striving to hasten final action, were reported seriously considering an amendment "guaranteeing" that American armed forces would not be employed in any delivery of war materials to Britain.

Would Eliminate Source

This amendment, offered by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), apparently was designed to remove one source of time-consuming debate by satisfying the demands of those who believe the bill should carry a prohibition against the use of naval vessels or American troops to carry out the lease-lend program.

Wagner called the program the people's "last best hope, short of war, to safeguard their peace and security."

Its passage is vital to the defense of the United States.

In a statement issued through his office, Wagner visualized the results of a British defeat.

He saw the United States threatened by victorious Axis powers along both her Atlantic and Pacific frontiers. He saw Nazi penetration in South America with the same technique that has been employed in the Balkans. He saw the creation of innumerable air bases south of the Rio Grande available for attack on the Panama Canal. He saw highly subsidized economic warfare against this country.

"If he let Britain go down," he said, "we are deliberately selecting a line of defense most advantageous to our enemies, and we are deliberately inviting war to come to this hemisphere."

The proposal to include in the bill a "guarantee" clause concerning the use of the armed services already has received extended discussion among the program's supporters.

O'Mahoney, it was learned, has talked with Secretary Hull, Vice President Wallace, and members of the Senate leadership regarding his amendment, which would provide that defense articles "shall not be delivered outside the western hemisphere by the land or naval forces of the United States without the consent of Congress."

This proposal generally was regarded as a compromise for the amendment offered by Senator Ellender (D-La.), which states that nothing in the lease-lend bill can be interpreted as giving the President any additional authority to send troops out of this hemisphere.

It was reported authoritatively that Hull had evinced interest in the O'Mahoney provision and that neither he nor other administration leaders had expressed disapproval.

One administration leader, asking not to be quoted by name, told reporters that "O'Mahoney seems to have the answer to a ticklish problem."

Supplies Evidence

The favorable reception given the O'Mahoney amendment supplied additional evidence that White House lieutenants were concentrating all efforts on obtaining a final roll call by Saturday. Democratic Leader Barkley again called the Senate into session an hour earlier today.

Failure, however, set back the initial attempt to hurry up proceedings. When Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the foreign relations committee asked the Senate yesterday to agree unanimously to limit debate, Senator Clark (D-Mo.), an opposition leader, blocked the move by refusing consent.

Senator Schwartz (D-Wyo.), holding the opening spot in today's debate, chided the Senate for delay in his prepared speech and asserted that "we are now killing time while the Germans are killing."

Harrisburg Man Admits Slaying Bronx Housewife

George Joseph Cvek Held
by New York Police; He Tells of Assaulting
15 Other Women

New York, March 4 (AP)—District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx announced today that George Joseph Cvek, 23, of Harrisburg, Pa., had admitted the strangulation slaying of Mrs. Catherine Pappas in her Bronx home last month.

Cvek was arrested soon after midnight and, during an all-night questioning, Foley said he also admitted assaulting women in Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Newark, N. J., and other cities.

Foley said Cvek would be charged today with the murder of Mrs. Pappas.

After Mrs. Pappas had served brandy, coffee and cookies, Cvek tied her hands with his necktie while his arm encircled her throat, Foley said the prisoner told him.

The district attorney said Cvek added that Mrs. Pappas had stopped breathing when he placed her in a bed.

Arrested at Hotel

The arrest was made soon after midnight in a cheap Manhattan Hotel by six Bronx detectives who had been working on the Pappas killing and on a similar slaying yesterday in which another Bronx housewife, Mrs. Elizabeth Jensen, was garroted in similar fashion.

Cvek was not linked officially with the Jensen killing, however. During all-night questioning, Foley said the prisoner explained he would hitch rides on eastern highways, learn the address of his benefactors and later call at their homes, gaining entrance by pretending friendship with the husband.

In all, Cvek admitted 15 other assaults on women, Foley said, but the district attorney did not disclose details of these cases.

Police of Washington, D. C., were notified that Cvek answered the description of a man who assaulted and robbed Mrs. Ruth France last month in her home.

Cvek was traced, it was said, through handwriting on correspondence with some of the victims. The trail led once to Father Flannagan's Boytown, near Omaha, Neb., which address Cvek usually gave, police said. Checking hotel registers, detectives compared the handwriting on them.

The husbands of two women victims—one from Philadelphia and the other from Newark—arrived this morning and identified Cvek, Foley said.

Edward Wagner, husband of Mrs. Catherine Wagner, 30, of Philadelphia, identified the prisoner as the hitch-hiker whom he had picked up on February 9 near Elizabeth, N. J.

Wagner said he gave the man money and bought him a meal. Three days later, Wagner related, the same man appeared at the Wagner home while Mrs. Wagner, then an expectant mother, was alone. He assaulted Mrs. Wagner, looted the house and fled. A few days later Mrs. Wagner's baby was still-born.

Delaware 'Blue Law' Violators Crowd Court

Municipal Court in Wilmington, Del., wasn't big enough to hold all the persons who appeared to answer charges of violating the state's "Sunday Blue Laws," 200 years old, which forbid "worldly employment" on the Sabbath. Most of the defendants shown above had their cases postponed. Authorities decided to enforce the laws strictly when the statehouse of representatives voted down a proposed liberalization which would permit local option.

Turks Get Special Message From Hitler

Ankara, Turkey, March 4 (AP)—The Turkish cabinet went into session today to consider a special message from Adolf Hitler to President Inonu.

The message was delivered by airplane courier.

The cabinet met at 2 p. m. (7 a. m., E. S. T.) and still was in session this evening.

Field Marshal Fevzi Cakmak, chief of the Turkish general staff, attended the meeting.

It was understood that Premier Saydam would broadcast to the nation in the near future.

(In Sofia, authoritative diplomatic quarters said the message was an attempt to get Turkey to trade her British alliance for one with Germany—Sofia's policy against the historic designs of Russia.)

Heavy Rains Soak California, Snarl Autos, Railroads

Section of Santa Barbara
Flooded While Slides
Cut Off Main Roads;
10-Week Rain

Los Angeles, March 4 (AP)—A soggy California was swept anew today by heavy rains, creating hazardous conditions in many communities, snarling rail and highway transportation and disrupting communications and power service.

A low section of old Santa Barbara, where a half-inch of rain fell in 10 minutes, was flooded and Red Cross rescue crews removed 20 families with rowboats. Water covered the floors of some homes to a depth of 12 inches.

Slides and high water blocked the coast highway between here and San Francisco at many points, halting all traffic in the vicinity of Santa Barbara. The Ridge route, chief inland highway, was closed by highway police as a blizzard howled through the mountains. Scores of trucks and many private cars were halted.

Two hundred trees were blown across Southern Pacific railroad lines near Santa Barbara, but crews with power saws had trains moving slowly several hours later. Further north, high water had blocked other trains, but the road's dispatcher said all were moving at 3 a. m., some already 12 hours behind schedule.

Rainfall ranged upward to 2.04 inches in four hours at Solvang, Danish community in the hills behind Santa Barbara.

The Fresno, San Joaquin, Sacramento, Stanislaus and Tulare rivers in northern California all were running high, but below flood stage. Heavy rains in the mountains caused concern, however.

In Southern California, where three years ago today residents were digging out after a storm which took 79 lives and caused $65,000,000 property damage, there was no immediate flood threat, the county flood control bureau reported.

The city of Ventura was isolated as landslides blocked every road out. The sheriff's office evacuated families from nearby Live Oak. Telegraph and power lines in the area were snapped by floodwaters.

The weather bureau forecast showers until Wednesday forenoon, reporting that the storm was moving inland slowly.

Northern California has had 10 weeks of almost constant rain. February in Southern California was the wettest in 57 years.

British May Break Relations With Bulgaria in 24 Hours; German Troops Still Are on Move; Tokyo Sets Dead-Line

Russia Scolds Bulgars For Joining With Nazis

Soviet Take View Entry of Troops May Extend Sphere of War in
Balkan Region

Moscow, March 4 (AP)—Soviet Russia, taking the position that the presence of German troops in Bulgaria may lead to "extension of the sphere of war," has advised King Boris she cannot support his government "in its present policy."

The Russian attitude was expressed in a note handed the Bulgarian minister yesterday by the Soviet vice commissar of foreign affairs, Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

Recalling that the Soviet minister to Sofia was advised officially last Saturday that Bulgaria had consented to the entrance of Nazi troops to help in "the preservation of peace in the Balkans," the note declared:

"The Soviet government cannot share the opinion of the Bulgarian government as to the correctness of the latter's position in this matter, since it is a position—irrespective of the desire of the Bulgarian government—which does not lead to consolidation of peace, but to extension of the sphere of war and to Bulgaria being involved in it."

Can Give No Support

"In view of this, the Soviet government, true to its policy of peace, cannot render any support of the Bulgarian government in the application of its present policy."

(In London, the press association described it as "a mere formal protest" unlikely to result in any concrete action. The news agency noted that Russia had "chosen to inform Bulgaria, and not Nazi Germany, of her dislike of German troops in Bulgaria.")

(German diplomatic circles in Belgrade said the Russian statement was only of "theoretical importance" because Russia constitutes a defensive, rather than offensive, force.)

The Russian note added that the Soviet government felt "compelled" to express its attitude "especially in view of the fact that the Bulgarian press freely circulates rumors fundamentally misrepresenting the real position of the U. S. S. R."

The message did not say specifically in what way the Soviet position had been misrepresented.

Editor Is Sentenced

Honolulu, March 4 (AP)—Raymond Coll, editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, was given a 60-day suspended sentence yesterday for contempt of court because of a story about the seizure last Saturday of alien fishing sampans.

Federal Judge L. M. Stainback said the specific charge against the editor was failure to make true registry. He intimated that he believed a reference by the Advertiser to espionage might prejudice the jury. Coll offered no defense. Forty sampans operating in Hawaiian waters were seized after the federal grand jury indicted 80 persons, most of them Japanese, and three fishing companies, accusing them of conspiracy to violate laws governing the registration of the sampans.

Nazi Planes Rake Cardiff With Hail of Incendiary Bombs

American Red Cross Sends
Ambulances to Welsh
Seaport; Casualties
Are Not Known

Cardiff, Wales, March 4 (AP)—This important southwest port was raked for hours last night by a hail of incendiary bombs in what officials described as one of the greatest fire raids of the war.

Great fires were raging at the height of the attack, but all were under control this morning. Smoking ruins marked a trail of destruction across the city.

During the night, the American Red Cross sent ambulance units from London, 160 miles away. The number of casualties could not be determined immediately.

With widespread fires lighting the city, the German bombers followed up with high explosives.

Cardiff's chief constable James Wilson said, "It was a real pyrotechnic display. I doubt if any town has had more incendiary bombs showered upon it in any one raid."

In one hospital where surgeons were working over bomb casualties, one of the operating theatres was struck, but no casualties resulted.

Crowds Stay in Theatres

Motion picture theatres were showing to capacity crowds when the fire bombs began to fall. In some, the audiences remained seated, joining in community singing as nearby business blocks were burning.

Britons said the assault was in line with the new German strategy of using bombers to fight the British sea blockade by raiding ships, harbors and harbor facilities. The Luftwaffe was said to have been using about 150 bombers nightly in these forays.

It was officially stated that one of the German raiders over Cardiff was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

Nazi night raiders also attacked scattered areas elsewhere in Britain, including London, the north-east coast and southeast Scotland, but the government declared these assaults were not on a large scale and damage was not extensive.

(The Germans said Newcastle was one of their main targets.)

Several Cardiff business buildings were burned out and damage to the residential district was considerable, but the government said all fires had been extinguished by dawn.

German planes, for the first time, made use of a new type of "chandelier" flares to light up objectives at one point in East Anglia.

Observers said the new device consisted of a perpendicular jockey of white lights, with a brilliant orange flare in the center. When struck by anti-aircraft fire, the flares broke into "thousands" of smaller lights which brilliantly illuminated the area below.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 4 (AP)—The position of the Treasury March 1: Receipts $15,718,582.51. Expenditures $45,682,622.85. Net balance $1,677,356,147.22. Working balance included $933,705,842.36. Customs receipts for month $1,477,444.29. Receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $3,821,280,276.61. Expenditures $7,415,648,420.67. Excess of expenditures $3,597,148,144.06. Gross debt $46,099,232,090.82. Increase over previous day $9,562,757.68. Gold assets $22,231,596,666.16.

Practical Joker Suspected

New York, March 4 (AP)—Police believed today a practical joker was responsible for exploding a can of powder last night on steps of the home of Vicomte Jacques D'Aumale, French minister plenipotentiary and charge de consulate de France. The can, used to hold evaporated milk, went off with a sound like that of an automobile backfire. D'Aumale told investigators, and did no damage other than to dent the front door of his upper East Side home.

Czechoslovakia Day

Albany, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—New York will observe Czechoslovakia day Friday, 91st birthday of that nation's president-liberator, Thomas Masaryk. Proclaiming the observance yesterday, Governor Lehman declared "right must again prevail over might." It is our prayer that liberty and democracy will soon be restored to people of Czechoslovakia.

Where Balkan Crisis Looms

Tension mounted in the area shown in this map after Bulgaria adhered to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo Axis and Nazi troops overran the country clear to the frontiers of Greece and Turkey, which latter nation closed the strategic Dardanelles and mined the waters to enforce the closing. Map locates strategic Salonika, Greek seaport, and Sofia, where Nazi Balkan army headquarters were reported established.

Brodsky Assails Mooney, Rosendale Supervisor, for Conduct of W. P. A. in Town

Member of Township Board Also Offers
Challenge to Mooney's Charge of
W. P. A. Employees Being Idle
While on Town's Payroll

Charges that Supervisor John J. Mooney took "full charge" of a W. P. A. project and spent money without authorization of the Rosendale Town Board, were made last night by Edward Brodsky, a member of the town board.

Mr. Brodsky also challenged a published statement by Supervisor Mooney in which the latter made charges to the effect that a certain group of W. P. A. employees were on the town payroll without turning in the work required of them.

A resolution designed to prohibit members of the board from publishing articles on town affairs before they are first discussed at the meetings, was adopted. It was offered by Mr. Brodsky and voted through by all members of the board with the exception of Supervisor Mooney who did not vote.

The resolution came following a protest by Mr. Brodsky that Supervisor Mooney paid for space in the Rosendale paper to touch upon issues which had not been recorded as proceedings at a previous meeting of the board.

Proofs Must Be Furnished

In effect the resolution requires that proofs of such articles must be furnished members of the board prior to publication so that members of the board may have a chance to answer any charges that are made at the time of publication of such articles when the issues discussed are not direct recordings of town board proceedings.

In a statement which Mr. Brodsky read before the board last night he charged that Mr. Mooney in a published statement February 14 the supervisor said in effect that Mr. Brodsky "didn't want the taxpayers to know what was going on in this town."

Mr. Brodsky charged that "Mr. Mooney was referring to the remarks I made at the town board meeting on February 3." Mr. Brodsky said that he had asked for publication on what he had to say, and he added, "But this was never done."

Continuing his charges against the supervisor Mr. Brodsky declared:

"In January, 1940, Mr. Mooney

Roosevelt Enters Upon His Ninth Year As President; No Celebration Planned

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the only President in America's history to attain a third term, entered today upon his ninth year as chief executive of the United States.

Although the occasion was unique, nothing was planned in the way of observance. Mr. Roosevelt merely plugged away on a routine devoted primarily to defense and aid to Britain.

The administration's preoccupation with these problems is reflected in Mr. Roosevelt's day-by-day engagements. The men with whom he consults most frequently now are William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman of the office for production management, the secretaries of State, War and Navy, the top officers of the armed services, and diplomats.

Controversy swirls around the subjects of rearmament and British aid, but seldom, now, do complaints arise that administration

The crisis in the Balkans moved nearer the breaking-point.

Authoritative quarters in London said Britain might break off relations with Bulgaria "within the next 24 hours"—with the action presumably to be followed by a declaration of war.

A high neutral diplomatic source in Sofia quoted Minister George W. Rendel as saying he has now decided to sever British relations with Bulgaria within 36 hours.

Rendel is said to have full freedom of action concerning the rupture, which may ignite the long-expected Balkan bonfire.

Unconfirmed advices said R. A. F. planes had already been sighted flying high over Bulgaria.

Answer Expected

In the Far East trouble zone, Japan was reported to have set another dead-line for France's reply on Japanese-dictated terms for settlement of the conflict between Thailand (Siam) and French Indo-China.

Domei, Japanese news agency, said the "final answer" was expected by 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, today.

Reports from Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, said the mass movement of German troops from the north continue apace, with lines of Nazi motorized equipment, tanks, anti-aircraft guns and field artillery—sometimes in columns 50 miles long—streaming south into Bulgaria through three mountain passes.

Turkey was reported speeding reinforcements to her frontier with Bulgaria.

A Swiss telegraphic agency dispatch from Belgrade, Yugoslavia capital, reported "increasing preliminary conversations are underway for an armistice between Greece and Italy."

But this was unconfirmed elsewhere, and London said Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the Imperial General Staff, were working out a plan with Greek government leaders in Athens to rush aid to Greece in the event of a German invasion.

No. 1 Riddle

Soviet Russia, still the No. 1 riddle of the war, was reported reinforcing her troops on the Prut river frontier, facing Rumania, as Rumania's mobilization continued under the supervision of German staff officers.

Berlin shrugged off the Kremlin's remonstrance, declaring it was none of Germany's affair, while London described the Soviet note to Bulgaria as a "mere formal protest."

There was no indication, a British spokesman said, that Russia had stepped out of her role of defensive neutrality.

The immediate intention of Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia, now that German troops are at their frontiers, remained undisclosed. Turkey and Greece were said to be moving swiftly to strengthen their Bulgarian borders, while Yugoslav diplomatic circles have indicated Yugoslavia would swing into the Axis fold some time this week.

London gave no confirmation of Italian press reports that Britain already had landed strong forces at Salonika, barely 60 miles from the Bulgarian frontier.

Domei, Japanese news agency, indicated today that Japan for the second time in a week had set a time limit for a reply by France to proposals for settlement of her Indo-China border dispute with Thailand.

The news agency said Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka was believed to have told French Ambassador Charles Arsene Henry that a "final answer" was expected by Wednesday noon (10 p. m., E. S. T. today).

In the British-German air struggle, R. A. F. raiders reported setting great fires at Cologne, in the industrial Rhineland; and other R. A. F. night bombers jabbed at Nazi invasion ports at Brest, Ostend and Boulogne as well as German airdromes in occupied France.

Drops Explosives

Hitler's high command acknowledged that the R. A. F. dropped explosives "and a large number of incendiaries" at several places in western Germany, killing and injuring some civilians and damaging houses.

In the African war, both the German and Italian high commands asserted that German troops had defeated British mechan-

Private R. P. Cwill Writes of Life at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Wed. Feb. 26, 1941
Freeman Publishing Co., Kingston, New York

Gentlemen:
On reading your paper down here in this southern country, I find that you are quite well informed about the boys located at Fort Dix, N. J. I am of the opinion that there are quite a few people in Kingston that are wondering how some of the Kingston boys are doing in other army camps in the country. I am therefore taking it upon myself to write and tell something of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Fort Bragg is located about the east central part of North Carolina. It is about 675 miles or so from Kingston, N. Y., and about 12 miles from Fayetteville, N. C., the nearest town. I was ordered from Fort Dix with another Kingston boy named Al Motter, to this Fort on January 22, 1941. I believe we were the first Kingston draftees to be sent to this Fort. We arrived here January 23 and instead of being confronted with rows of tents and cold weather as in Dix, we found the weather mild and row upon row of newly built barracks. In each of the barracks will be found the comforts that a soldier would never dream of. There are two floors to a barracks with about 25 men on each floor. Each man has a bunk to sleep on and I might add that they are not half bad sleeping on especially when 6:30 in the morning arrives at which time we have to roll out. The place is warm with but little bed covering required. The wash rooms are quite large, with hot and cold water. The mess hall, located several hundred feet from the barracks, can feed 200 men at one time. The first week we were here, we found the food was good but not enough of it. We now eat to our satisfaction.

The Fort is steadily increasing in population and by summer there will be about 65,000 men located here. It will be one of the largest in the U. S., both in men and in area, covering about 380,000 acres of land. Most of the land is ideal for training men for the army due to the fact that there are plenty of forests and a lot of open spaces. This and the fact that we have mild weather finds the men rapidly progressing in their training. We are to go through 13 weeks of extensive military training and by the end of this period will go on maneuvers, sometime in April.

I am connected with the Service Co., 39th Infantry. Part of my training consists of lessons in truck driving, transfer of troops, food and munitions. Last week, we were called out twice on convoys, covering about 140 miles each time. We didn't go in the morning or afternoon but at night after dark. In each time we started out about 7 o'clock and returned about two in the morning. We were up as usual at 6:30. It is all interesting work and none of the boys seems to mind it very much.

I could go on describing a lot more of this end of the army but instead will tell about a few of the boys I met down here. A few weeks ago, I met Jack Murphy from Henry street who was drafted into the service from N. Y. C. Jack is doing nicely in the 60th Infantry and outside of army life is still very much interested in baseball. I read in your paper where Kingston fell quite a few boys away a week past to my surprise find quite a few of them down here. Jack and I went over to see the boys Monday and found Charlie Beck, Leo Prusak, Finley, "Junie" Guesse, Abdallah, Albright and Albert Perry. All the boys were very glad to see us and I to see them. They are all in quarantine for another week for the feeling time. I should also state that they are connected with the 9th Medical Battalion.

I believe that with this little information that any of the drafted boys when they hear of Fort Bragg will not shudder at the thought of going to a strange fort. If they happen to be picked for Fort Bragg, if they get in touch with me, I will be only too glad to help them get acquainted.

So with good wishes to all my friends and a kind thought to you for the space in your paper, I remain,

Pvt. Raymond P. Cwill

BOUNCING WITH A "BLITZ BUGGY"

With all four wheels off the ground, the army's new "blitz buggy" or army command reconnaissance car, rides over rough terrain at the Ford Motor Company's proving grounds in Detroit. Ford has started mass production of 1,500 of these four-wheel drive vehicles. Top speed is nearly 60 miles an hour and they are capable of climbing grades of 68 per cent fully loaded.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Time Marches On
Attica, Ind.—Thirty-six years ago Mrs. Thornton Hunt lost a gold watch.

Just the other day she got it back. Workmen moving a motor in a Danville (Ill.) power plant had found it embedded in the concrete emplacement.

How it got there nobody knew. But a jeweler said it still kept time.

Meow
Fort Wayne, Ind.—On an ambulance run to Fred Stoops' house, police found the family cat with its tail caught in gears of a washing machine.

The cat was released unhurt, but the washing machine needed repairs.

Dear Diary . . .
Dallas, Ore.—Merritt Arthur King's wedding week didn't turn out exactly as he planned it:

Monday—Got married; Tuesday—broke the measles; Wednesday—King arrested for traffic violation; Thursday—given 15-day jail sentence; Friday—court released, suspended sentence.

The honeymoon will start when the bride recovers—if nothing else happens.

Consideration
Waukegan, Ill.—At least this thief was considerate to a degree: He stole Ruth Roemer's shoes while she was skating but left an old pair, presumably so she wouldn't have to walk home in her stocking feet.

For Services Rendered
Jacksonville, Ill.—C. R. Hughett, Wabash railroad agent, received this letter:

"Enclosed find five dollars in payment for rides already taken on the Wabash."

It was signed, "Honest hobo."

Life Insurance in action!

By its very nature, Life Insurance is an active, continuing force—a living force in the homes of millions who share its benefits.

Last year Metropolitan visited many homes in times of family crisis, for a total of over $182,000,000 was paid on account of death claims to scores of thousands of beneficiaries of Metropolitan policyholders. Dividends, matured endowments, annuity payments, disability, and health and accident claims, and other benefits paid or credited to living policyholders during the year amounted to more than $426,000,000. The total of almost $609,000,000 for payments to policyholders and beneficiaries is a record high for the Company.

Metropolitan funds, invested for the benefit of its policyholders, continued to play a part in the economic structure of the nation. These funds aided in financing Government activities, helped to keep industry humming and men in jobs, to erect public and private buildings, and assisted farmers to own their farms and to keep them in proper repair. However, the low interest rates generally prevailing, continued to have their effect on the Company's earnings and consequently on dividends to policyholders.

Moreover, through its Welfare activities, its nursing service for eligible policyholders, its research, its health and safety literature and advertising, Metropolitan again contributed to the task of bringing better health to America. The death rate of Metropolitan policyholders as a whole continued to be low, and mortality among Industrial policyholders was approximately the same as the 1939 figure, a record low for this group.

Metropolitan is a mutual life insurance company. This means that the assets of the Company are held for policyholders and their beneficiaries. The value of these assets will ultimately be paid out for their benefit . . . and for them only.

Russian Announcement Is Sharp Note in Europe, Even Though Status Is Enigma

Germans in Belgrade Call Soviet Notice 'Theoretical' Moral Force Is Factor

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

If you can guess how many chicks the old Wyandotte hen will hatch out if you set 13 eggs under her, you probably know exactly what is going to happen in the Balkans—otherwise not.

A new note was sounded overnight in this tense situation, which is feeling its way blindly but swiftly toward a crisis. This was Russia's announcement that the Soviet cannot support the Bulgarian policy of agreeing to the occupation of Bulgaria by German troops since this "does not lead to consolidation of peace, but to the extension of the sphere of war and to Bulgaria being involved in it."

Actually this doesn't throw much light on the situation and we shouldn't be hasty in drawing conclusions. It rather looks like a back-handed expression of disapproval to Germany, whose advance down the Balkan peninsula is a challenge to Russian interests. As such it might constitute a warning to Hitler to go slow.

German diplomatic circles in Belgrade summed the Moscow statement up as of "theoretical importance" only, because they regarded Russia as not an offensive force. However that may be, the Soviet moral force is likely to have a strong influence on Turkey's position in the final showdown.

Working Out Plan

Of more immediate importance was a report received in London from Athens. This said that British Foreign Minister Eden and General Sir John Dill, chief of the imperial general staff, who are in Greece, were working out a plan with the Greek government to speed substantial aid to Greece if she is attacked by Germany.

There is no word as to whether this means that Turkey might aid her strength to an allied attempt to halt Hitler. Indications are, though, that Britain would be glad to see the Turks get into the fight and thus open up a new war front just as Germany is getting ready to launch her big spring offensive against England. Herr Hitler can't afford to make battle on two fronts, since he needs every ounce of his power for his attempt to crush the British Isles.

It is for this reason that we find the Nazi chief making what is in effect a defensive or precautionary move in the Balkans. As I have remarked in this column before, there is no indication that he contemplates any major offensive at this juncture, and he is even trying to squeeze Greece into submission by threats rather than by the direct use of force.

Hitler wants to see military control of the Balkans clear down to the Aegean Sea and the Dardanelles. This will seal the lower end of the Balkans against any allied offensive against his eastern defenses. It also will give him, of course, the strategic bases from which to strike against Turkey and the Dardanelles if such an operation seems desirable.

It would be logical to expect Hitler to pause now for a bit while he applies the heat to Greece in an effort to compel her to make peace. Meanwhile he will try to persuade Yugoslavia to join the Axis, and it wouldn't be very surprising if she does. However, if Hitler has to apply force to Greece to achieve his ends, he likely will do so.

Should Hitler succeed in knocking Greece out and sealing the Balkans, this won't mean a catastrophe for Britain, although it will be a tough knock. She will still be immeasurably stronger in the Mediterranean than she was when Mussolini made his ill-advised assault on Greece. Out of that have grown the Anglo-allied victories which have all but forced Duce out of the war, and in a manner of speaking made him a more valuable ally for Britain than for his partner.

of labor estimated that 4,000 to 6,000 men struck yesterday at a $15,000,000 anti-aircraft firing range under construction near Hollywood in that state.

Despite the walkout, work continued on both the day and night shifts. AFL building trades leaders said the union asked a preferential shop, time and one half for overtime, and double pay on Sundays and holidays. Contractors contended most of the workmen were non-union, although they said they had not discriminated against union labor.

A CIO strike at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, Milwaukee, rounded out its sixth week in spite of an endeavor by the office of production management to get production resumed on $45,000,000 worth of army and navy contracts.

The union yesterday ratified an agreement suggested by the OPM to settle the dispute, but the company qualified its acceptance of the proposal and Thomas F. Burns, OPM representative, said the qualification would be interpreted as rejection. The OPM had suggested appointment of an impartial referee to consider CIO demands for a union shop and wage adjustments.

The firm's management insisted, however, on retaining "full rights to negotiate with the union for a contract which will express terms that cannot be construed or applied as a closed or all-union shop."

Other strikes in progress included walkouts at four International Harvester Company plants in Illinois and Indiana, three of which have defense orders; the S. S. White Dental Manufacturing Company, and the Burke Machine Tool Company, Connecticut. A CIO strike for a union shop at the Curtiss Wright Corporation's propeller division at Neville Island (Pittsburgh) halted production on defense contracts there. The plant employs about 950.

Rosendale Board Adopts

'Dog Catcher' Resolution

A resolution empowering the town constables to act in the capacity of dog wardens was adopted last night by the Rosendale Town Board.

It was pointed out at the meeting that the quarantine on rabies was still in effect in the township and dogs, therefore were not allowed to run loose without muzzles.

The constables through adoption of this resolution have the authority to shoot any dog at large in the township without muzzles.

Bar Association Hears Two Judges

Federal District Jurist and Justice F. E. Bergan Talk at Session

Federal Judge Edward A. Conger of Poughkeepsie was a guest speaker at the meeting of the Ulster County Bar Association, held at the Stuyvesant Hotel Monday night. Judge Conger presides over the U. S. District Court for the southern district of New York, one of the oldest courts in the United States, having been in existence before the Supreme Court began to function.

Judge Conger spoke of the atmosphere of dignity that characterizes the federal court and the mutual feeling of respect between judge and attorneys that it engenders.

Reference was made to the responsibility toward the public on the part of both judge and attorneys in the administration of justice, with the judge acting as referee while the attorney does his utmost to present the case of his client.

Judge Conger also discussed interestingly some of his earlier experiences as a practicing attorney.

Justice Francis E. Bergan, who is holding the present term of Supreme Court at Kingston, also was heard with interest by members of the Bar Association.

Justice Bergan discussed at some length the question of automobile insurance and claims for damages and injuries arising from automobile accidents.

The Justice felt that the attorneys owed a duty to the public in suggesting some solution to this vexing question. A part of the problem was seen to be the elimination of the irresponsible driver. Compulsory insurance had been suggested, but that has not found unanimous support and it was found to be up to the lawyers to find some other "adequate and workable" method.

Justice Bergan suggested that a conditional seller be deemed the owner of the vehicle so long as he holds an interest, which would make finance companies responsible for adequate insurance protection.

The present method of disposing of automobile cases was criticized as "irregular, haphazard, expensive and slow."

Almost Unanimous Support Expected For Budget Slash

By JOHN H. WIGGINS

Albany, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—Republican legislative leaders predicted today "almost unanimous support" of the majority party's lawmakers for a plan to cut nearly $5,000,000 from Governor Lehman's proposed $385,700,000 state budget.

The "economy program," intended to be veiled until tested at a closed conference of Republican legislators tomorrow, was known to call for replacement of almost $2,000,000 of the proposed savings into appropriations for town and county highways and county fairs.

Satisfied with their plan which would effect a net reduction in the 1941-42 budget of less than $3,000,000, party chieftains turned a deaf ear to organized taxpayers' demands for additional tax reductions of $250,000,000.

The citizens public expenditure survey, claiming to be a "clearing house" for state-wide taxpayer groups, promised a protest that would make previous budget battles "look like skirmishes" unless such economies are made.

The group advocated cuts of $7,000,000 more in home relief funds, $12,000,000 in department expenses and state aid for education, $500,000 by elimination of the governor's requested emergency defense fund, and $550,000 by discarding a proposed pay differential for inducted civil service workers.

While Republican leaders refused to reveal what items in the governor's budget were to be decreased, an authoritative source asserted the proposed savings were enlarged by discovery of "an over-looked revenue" totaling about $1,500,000.

The citizens public expenditure survey, meanwhile, announced mailing of petitions to 2,693 state-wide and local taxpayer associations, chambers of commerce, civic, women's, farm, church and service organizations urging a $20,000,000 budget reduction.

Declaring 1,000,000 signatures will be sought for the petitions, Walter M. Franklin, president of the survey, added: "If force is the only language that can speak for economy at Albany, taxpayers are prepared to fight."

Vermont Has Anniversary

Montpelier, Vt., March 4 (AP)—Scenes of an earlier era were re-enacted today as this old Green Mountain state—the first to be added to the 13 original colonies—observed the 150th anniversary of its admission to the republic. Coincidentally, it was town meeting day, and, as in bygone times women in calico dresses and men in old fashioned garb with stove pipe hats rode to meeting in ox-draws or horse-drawn sleighs.

BRONX HOUSEWIFE FOUND SLAIN

A woman, identified by police as Mrs. Elizabeth Jensen, 34-year-old Bronx, N. Y., housewife, was found garrotted to death by a necktie in a manner similar to that which caused the death of a Bronx woman a few weeks ago. Police identified this picture as Mrs. Jensen and her husband, Carl, a night club waiter.

took full charge of the River Road which was a W.P.A. project. This the supervisor did without the consent of the town board. The proposal for the River road project was signed by the former supervisor, Charles Thielman, and Mr. Trandle, the sponsors' agent.

"The first four months the supervisor was spending money without the town board auditing these bills, which was illegal. Here is a section of the town tax disbursements without audit."

"There was no statute which in terms or by implication authorized a supervisor to disburse the moneys of the town in payment of claims against the town before such claims had been examined and allowed by the town board. Such payments were therefore regarded as unauthorized and the disbursements illegal."

"Part of the time the supervisor was not in town to look after the affairs of the town in the proper way."

"The mismanagement started by Mr. Mooney hiring men who were not on relief, which is against the W.P.A. rules. Then the Hon. Supervisor hired an engineer at $15 a day . . . some more waste. When this bill came up for audit I voted against it, as this is a waste of taxpayers' money."

"Mr. Mooney further stated that he knew about money being wasted. Why didn't he stop it by not paying the bills? He handles all the checks."

"I wonder why we have a supervisor? In the month of May, 1940, the supervisor asked the town board to raise money for home relief and work relief. This money the board refused to raise because the money was being spent carelessly. Up until now I haven't seen in the press what Mr. Mooney received at one percent of moneys spent in the town for the year of 1940. This amounted to $616.11, a most double what any supervisor received."

"Here is another item I haven't seen in the press: $74,071.47."

This is the amount to be raised by taxes in the present tax collections."

Promises Answer

After this statement was read, Mr. Brodsky challenged Supervisor Mooney to answer the charges, but the latter said he would have an answer and an explanation at a special meeting to be called later.

"I ask Mr. Mooney to prove the statement that I didn't want the taxpayers to know what was going on in this town," challenged Mr. Brodsky. "I want him to prove also that those six men he refers to on the W.P.A. didn't do any work."

"To this Mr. Mooney answered: 'Let the taxpayers of the town come to that special meeting and I'll explain then. I haven't said anything for the press which hadn't been brought up at the meeting.'"

Renews Challenge

Mr. Brodsky renewed his original challenge and charged: "You haven't answered me yet," to which Supervisor Mooney replied:

"You made a 'crack' at the beginning of the year that this board would never harmonize. You made the 'crack' here, too, that when you got out of office you were going to split the town wide open."

As a taxpayer I have the right to say what I want to say in the newspapers."

Mr. Brodsky then offered his resolution which would check the publication of articles unless the members of the board were given chance to answer them in the same issue of the paper.

Arguments which continued after the resolution was offered were halted when Benjamin Swehla, a town assessor arose to point out that nothing was to be gained by the trend of the arguments and the board continued on with its other business.

Seated officially at the meeting were town board members Charles Zaengle, Arthur Aldridge, Sr., Anna Auchmoody, town clerk, Supervisor Mooney and Mr. Brodsky.

The meeting attracted a crowd which remained until the calling of an executive session for a report of Mary L. O'Connor, welfare agent.

ing English women and children, and the aged and infirm."

"While Britain calls for help in battles that mean so much for the ultimate preservation of our own liberty, freedom and democracy," he said, "we try to reach an agreement on when we will be permitted to vote."

Schwartz used the epithet "whirling dervishes" for opponents of the bill and related how "a caustic citizen from the short grass country in Wyoming wrote me this advice:

"If you senators can't vote down there, why don't you buy fiddles? Nero's little effort was a small bonfire compared to what is going on in the world today."

Hitler, Schwartz declared, was "the German paranoic" who should be "shackled and rendered harmless in the future."

Taxes can destroy the press. "Regulation" of advertising can discourage merchants and producers from offering their wares through the cheap and simple method of notices in the press; advertising helps pay the cost of gathering and distributing other news. Even so seemingly remote a thing as high telegraph rates can stifle the newspaper which must get you today's news today.

Thus, when you see blood on a "Strong Man's" sword, make sure it is not newspaper blood.

Blood on the Blade

By NORMAN CHANDLER
Chairman, Newspaper Publishers Committee

"THE pen is mightier than the sword" only when the pen is free.

You hear much talk of dictatorship and total central power these days. You need not fear it so long as men can write what they think and report what they see.

If you suspect a dictator—a "Strong Man," is approaching, watch his nation's newspapers. If they are healthy, unsuppressed, vigorous, it is a safe sign. So long as the ballot remains and you keep your right to choose how, when and where you shall spend your money, you need only a virile press to protect you.

But remember that the press can be attacked in many ways.

"Secret" government withholds news at its source—or distorts it with lies and false information.

Representatives for the Girl Scout troops in the Kingston area will gather Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in St. Joseph's Hall to participate in a home-making contest sponsored by the junior group of Wiltyck Chapter, D.A.R. The girl homemakers' committee of the group is in charge of this event in co-operation with the Girl Scout leaders. A simple luncheon will be prepared by each troop and a table set, suitably, for serving this luncheon. Award will be on the flavor, texture and attractiveness of the food and service, corrections in table setting and originality of the centerpiece. A first and second prize will be awarded to the winning troops. Members of the junior group are invited to attend. The judges to be announced later, will be women trained in home economics.

Home Nursing Course
The Public Health Nursing Committee of the town of Esopus will sponsor a course in home nursing during the month of March, beginning Monday evening, March 4, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Health Center at Port Ewen. A similar course for women of the village of Port Ewen has just been completed.

The course beginning Monday will be for those living in the villages of the town of Esopus other than Port Ewen and will be conducted, as was the recent one, by Miss Marie Day, R. N., public health nurse. Some of the subjects to be covered by the demonstrations will be "Nursing and Contagious Disease," "Equipment of the Medicine Cabinet," "How to Improve Nursing Equipment in the home." Anyone from the above mentioned villages is welcome. There is no charge for the course and no registration.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

This is filling but not heavy food.

Crab Salad
1 cup crabmeat (fresh or canned)
1/2 cup diced celery
2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon paprika
1/2 cup mayonnaise
Mix half of mayonnaise with other ingredients. Chill, serve on squares of jelly tomato juice and top with rest of mayonnaise. Garnish with sliced pimiento stuffed olives.

Jellied Tomato Juice
3 cups tomato juice
1 cup boiling water
1 bay leaf
4 celery leaves
1 onion slice
4 whole cloves
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
Simmer ingredients (excepting gelatin, lemon juice and cold water). Cover for 25 minutes. Strain the juice and reheat to boiling, add gelatin soaked five minutes in cold water and stir. Add juice and pour into shallow pan or ring mold. Chill until firm.

Date Dainties
1/2 cup fat
1 cup dark brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons cream
1 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cups pastry flour
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and mix lightly. Drop portions dough from spoon onto greased baking sheets. Flatten each dainty and bake 8 minutes in a moderate oven.

Slenderizing Jacket-Ensemble

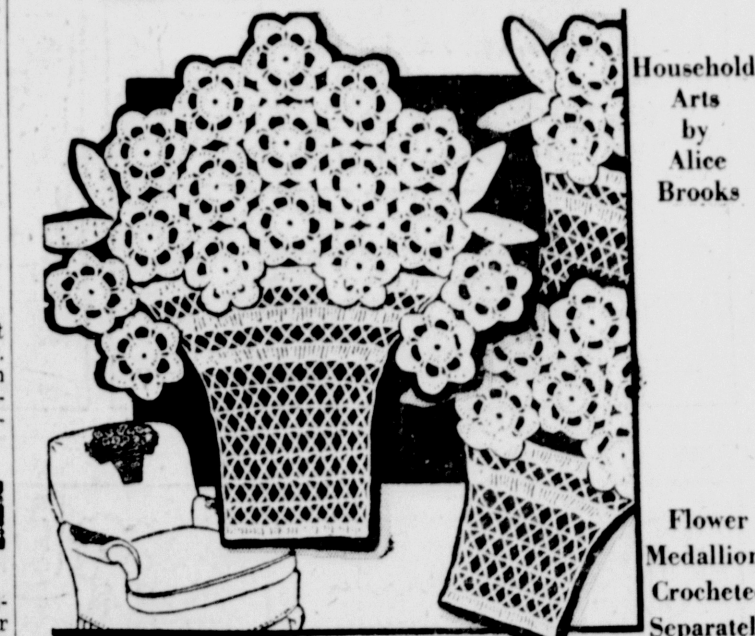

Marian Martin PATTERN 9672

A "must-have" style during with out-a-coat months is the jacket ensemble! Marian Martin has designed Pattern 9672 with her usual expert understanding of mature figure problems. The jacket is carefully cut to hang with straight, slim lines that cover up too-generous curves. The dress is young and smart, with a triple-paneled front skirt and short or three-quarter-length sleeves. You may choose either a V-shaped neckline or casual revers, and use a neat self or contrasting bow or button trim down the front. Lace edging would give a dainty touch to the V-neck, short sleeve version. Order your pattern right away... buy a few yards of leaf-and-spring or flower print... and with the Sew Chart's aid, you'll finish this outfit at high speed!

Pattern 9672 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48. Size 36, entire ensemble, 5 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. Hostess Gown Too Ambiguous a Term, Emily Post Says, in Plea for Dressmakers' Dictionary

I wish the dressmakers would supply us all with a dictionary giving fixed definitions of the terms hostess dress, housecoat, tea gown, Sunday night dress, cocktail dress and several others occasionally mentioned. All these are much too ambiguous for me to risk a yes or no answer when asked questions such as this one:

"When going to visit a friend, may I wear a hostess dress when people are invited to an evening party to meet me? This would be just a smallish gathering of her friends, but I'm wondering whether a hostess dress would be suitable when I'm not the hostess."

At a guess then, all I can say is this: If you would wear this same dress in your own house at a similar party, it is probably suitable now; if it suggests casual beach or lounging clothes, then it isn't. In other words, it all depends upon the effect it makes, and not upon its name. The fact that it is called a hostess dress doesn't in the least prevent your wearing it in someone else's house, particularly if your hostess is wearing a dress of the same sort.

"Ladies and Gentlemen"
Dear Mrs. Post: When lecturing, is it proper to address a group of women as women or ladies?

Answer: In the course of your talk you might happen to say "we women" or "you women," but when addressing them (unless it is a women's political rally and you say "fellow women.") you say "Ladies."

Correcting Someone
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it rude to tell someone how to pronounce my name if they mispronounce it quite badly?

Answer: It need not be rude if you do it tactfully. That is, if you say "My name is impossible to pronounce to everyone, but we pronounce it . . ." Of course if you don't expect to see the person again, you would probably just let the mistake go.

Who Ends Telephone Talk?
Dear Mrs. Post: When a friend telephones, is she or am I supposed to say "good-bye" first? Or is there no rule?

Answer: There is no rule! Usually the person who calls ends the conversation when he (or she) has said what he had in mind. When a conversation simply runs on and on, the one who is the more pressed for time seizes almost any pause and ends it.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "What to Wear and When." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Marriage Is Annulled

Mae L. Crowder of Marlborough has been granted an annulment of her marriage to Harvey Max Crowder by Official Referee A. H. F. Seeger before whom the matter was heard on February 15 at Newburgh. Michael Nordone appeared for the plaintiff. The action was brought on the grounds of fraud of defendant and misrepresentation at the time of the marriage which took place at Marlborough on January 9, 1932. The annulment is interlocutory and grants custody of two minor children to plaintiff. Plaintiff claimed that she was but 15 at the time of her marriage and that the defendant at that time promised to make a home for her and promised that she would not have to work. She now claims the defendant refuses to make a home and support her and the family. The order of Judge Seeger provides that the plaintiff shall have support for the children.

Smart Waltz Easy to Do With Diagram As Guide

Viennese Waltz Popular and Fun

The gay, the charming Viennese Waltz! You want to be at your best in this newly popular dance, not one of the girls who just blunder along, losing glamour at each step.

Practice at home with simple diagrams. Then you'll whirl about gracefully with your partner—skirts, coat tails flying—and you may be sure the stag line will note your airy skill!

The main trick in the Viennese is to do the Waltz Turn smoothly—for you and your partner must rotate round and round each other.

Count 1—Step forward on left foot, toe turned out, shoulders to left. 2—Make a half turn to left by pivoting on ball of left foot and swinging right foot around in a semi-circle, placing it to side of left. 3—Close left foot up to right. Now continue turning, starting on right foot.

Fun, isn't it? And you can as easily learn other smart dances.

Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and instructions for popular steps in tango, rumba, fox-trot, Westchester, shag, Conga, waltz and Viennese waltz. Also posture, leading, following.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOME COURSE IN NEW BALLROOM DANCES to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

I Did Not Know
I did not know the sky revealed such colors wondrous fair;
One day I gave an upward glance and saw a rainbow there.
I did not know that man could be so gentle and so kind;
I spent a peaceful afternoon in company of the blind.

I did not know what flowers hid within their cloistered cell;
A friend brought heliotrope to me, and helped to make me well.
I did not know that common things were much approved of God;
I watched a man with saintly face, a-working in the sod.
I did not know the beggar man did anything worthy while;
I gave to one a silver coin. He gave me back a smile.
I did not know that any book could mean so much to me;
I read: "And ye shall know the truth, and truth shall make you free."

Questionnaire for Wives
We were at a party where a group of married men were subjected to a questionnaire for husbands that appeared in a magazine. At its conclusion several of the men retired from the room and later appeared with these questions for their wives:

Do you nag?

Do you get jealous of women who like your husband?

Do you spend more than you should?

Do you do your job well?

Do you do as much around the house as you could?

Do you keep track of your bridge losses?

Do you use your husband's razor?

Do you sincerely like your husband's relatives?

Do you have breakfast with your husband?

Do you make your dinner hour more important than your husband's livelihood?

Do you hang up your stockings in the bathroom?

Do you disfigure yourself before going to bed?

Do you play bridge to the neglect of your family?

Do you ever buy gasoline?

Do you respect your husband's need for rest?

The men had a way of scoring these questions, but we have forgotten what it was. Anyway it was a good comeback.

She had called on a friend who had just moved into a new house.

Together the two had gone around the place, and then settled down for a chat over a cup of tea.

The visitor still was thinking about the house.

Visitor—Darling, I didn't think to mention it before, but I just remembered that I have the cutest little bay window.

Woman of the House (decidedly coldly)—Indeed.

Correct this Sentence: "When we were in," said the conservative, "we were too ethical to use our power to keep ourselves in office."

Uncle—I hear someone coming down the stairs. It must be your mother.

Sonny—That's Sis. Mother don't stop on the landing to look in the mirror.

Do you allow your interest in one thing to crowd everything else out? You'll find yourself mentally like the physical health of the child that wouldn't eat anything but candy.

HOME BUREAU

Lake Katrine Unit

Saturday, March 1, the Lake Katrine Home Bureau enjoyed a supper and social evening at the home of Mrs. William Hookey. Both the hostess, Mrs. Hookey, and committee, which consisted of Mrs. Auley Roosa, Mrs. Katherine Roosa and Mrs. Harry Van Aken spent much time and effort to serve a very delicious and abundant meal. There were 12 members and 12 husbands and guests present.

After dinner, Samuel Bernstein gave a talk and displayed his collection of stamps, coins and buttons, etc. This was very much appreciated by all present. Everyone was allowed to see at close hand and handle the books and cards on which the collection was displayed. Members of the Lake Katrine Home Bureau, and members of the P-T-A. are reminded of the meeting at the schoolhouse on Thursday, March 6. They will have the privilege of hearing Dr. Edgar Beebe of New Paltz Normal School. This is scheduled for 8 p. m.

ALONG CAME CINDERELLA

By VIVIEN GREY

YESTERDAY: Lovely Day has been trying to make up for a childhood in which she was denied everything by living twice too fast, now that she is the wife of wealthy Roger Cosgrave. But one day her crowd broke an invaluable Ming vase belonging to Roger's mother, and it brought Lovely to her senses. Now she has asked Roger to meet her for a special tea, and a surprise.

Chapter 24

Surprise

LOVELY kissed her finger and touched it to the tip of Roger's nose.

"That's for a perfect lover," she said, and then turned him around. "Look," she said.

On a small table, perfectly mended, was the Ming vase. Roger's eyes lighted. Lovely had done a painstaking and excellent job. "For Marcia?" Roger asked.

But Lovely said it wasn't.

"I asked her if she wanted it," she continued. "She said she didn't, and has already put a beautiful old piece in its place—something Aunt Amalia gave her from the tons she has stored away. But even that wasn't what I mended it for," with characteristic honesty, "it did it for me, as a sort of reminder. A brake, darling, if you see what I mean."

Roger took her in his arms. "I think I do, Lovely," he said tenderly.

They had tea then at a small table before a wide window that looked out toward the river. A freighter moved lazily along the channel, a large American flag painted on its side. Lovely watched it, her eyes pensive. The regular mail plane zoomed over head. The sound of guns at Camp Smith came faintly on the quiet air.

"I'm knitting for the Royal Air Force," Lovely said. "The yarn came today. And I'll have to economize. I'm giving half my allowance to their Aid Fund."

Roger's heart welled with quiet happiness. Of course, all of Lovely's impulses would respond generously to a need.

And the roof of Granny Hale's house covered a sort of life that was light and tender and gay and pleasant. Lovely got fun out of little economies though her life was etched against a background of elegance. Flowers on the table, spotted linens, leisure for making and keeping herself in state of bandbox neatness and Hollywood beauty.

There was a new car in the garage. It was Lovely's own. Roger's gift to her.

"For getting my wife back," he told her.

Lovely learned to drive quickly, as she did everything else. And she drove too fast, as she did everything else.

Roger would get home to find the house dark. He'd hear the scream of tires on a curve. Wheels grinding gravel. Then Lovely would burst upon him in a wild flurry of fine accents and fine clothes and gay exclamations. And with an unfinished piece of knitting trailing along somewhere.

"All the way from New York to my own door in sixty minutes! Yes, in an hour, darling! From Gertrude's And oh, precious, I haven't got a red cent left. Not a cent! It was Sunny's birthday."

Roger kissed between the words.

"You've been drinking," he accused. "In daytime. And on the road alone."

Big News

"ONLY three cocktails. After all, it was Sunny's birthday. And darling! Oh, my darling," her voice rising to a high ecstatic note with some glorious thing she was about to impart, "we're going to have birthdays of our own to celebrate! Roger, my blessed, we are! We are!"

"Lovely," suddenly tense, "what are you talking about?"

"Don't you know? Can't you guess?" She danced around the table the maid had set, opening a box of roses, putting them in a low bowl in the center.

"Oh, Lovely," Roger knew with a certainty what she meant. His heart was in his voice.

"And I'll weep if it isn't a boy just like you!"

Lovely's elation made right everything that had been even faintly wrong. It put to rest all of Marcia's fears for the future of her son's married life. Any girl who could be so thoroughly happy at the prospect of her first baby must be fundamentally right.

Lovely went on with her life as if nothing was about to happen. She was photogenic. She was a natural for photographers. Lovely at the horse show. At the dog show. Lovely at the field trials. Lovely on the golf links. Lovely as the smart hostess for a smart party.

"Don't you think you'd better ease up?" Roger asked.

"Why?" the question came brightly.

"Because I am looking forward to a son or daughter, darling, a well, healthy, whole one."

"I'll give you that, lambie pie."

"Lovely, darling, if you'd only begin to think with that gadget you use for a brain."

"Then our trouble would be gin!" was her gay reply.

And Aunt Amalia watched her one day as she romped in the pool, and asked Roger:

"Well, my boy, how do you like the merry-go-round you're living on?"

Roger smiled gently at Amalia's tartness.

"Lovely's got her points, Aunt Amalia," he said. "She's good, as kind and sweet in her intentions as can be. You'll see that after while."

Amalia sniffed.

"Oh, yes, even the worst women have their good points."

But the time came when Lovely had to slow up. She did it gracefully, even prettily. And Roger watched over her like a mother cat over its first and only kitten.

Meantime Emily, grown a little more lovely as time emphasized her wistfulness, came week ends at the urgent plea of the whole family and sat quietly in a big chair knitting gay little garments.

Marcia said to her husband:

"If only she wouldn't. Something about it gives me the creeps. It's almost as if it was to be her child."

And Cosgrave, man-like, said: "I think it's very fine and generous of Emily."

"Of course it is," Marcia's reply came quickly. "But you don't see what I mean at all. It's—it's weird."

Lovely had settled down to a very quiet life and an only partially patient waiting when Aunt Amalia gave one of her impressive and beautiful family dinners as an outward sign of her complete acceptance of Roger's wife.

Lovely was gracious and glamorous and beautiful. Roger was proud of her.

Lovely even went to the hospital with a gay gesture, and in a few hours was smiling up at Roger and speaking in a voice that was only a little less lush and full-toned and beautiful than usual.

"Hi—yah, papa! Go say good morning through the glass to Rogette!"

"Lovely!" he exclaimed as he kissed her eagerly, "you're not going to call her Rogette?"

"I'm telling you, darling!"

And Ring down in New York looked at the wire Girl showed him telling of Rogette's arrival and said: "Another crazy name! It sure is in the blood!"

Roger took Emily to the hospital to see his family, and the last day, as a special privilege, Emily was allowed to hold the baby a moment. She stood just beside Roger. They looked so right together with Emily holding the baby. As always with Lovely the thought became vocal.

"You look as if you belong together."

"I hope we always will, all four of us," Roger said quickly. He had not been aware of a misty quality about Emily that somehow was like unshed tears. He sensed it suddenly and knew why she did not speak.

Smooth Sailing

LOVELY and Rogette came home with a fanfare of flowers and gifts and good wishes and calls and telegrams and telephone messages.

"You know," Lovely said in one of her rare quiet moments in the nursery with Roger and the child, "there hasn't been a word from Joe. I thought he'd be the first one to wish me happiness with Rogette and to want to see her."

"Perhaps he doesn't know," Roger suggested.

"Perhaps he's deaf, dumb and blind! Doesn't know when all the New York papers have printed reams about us and came within an ace of naming my baby Cinderella whether I wanted it or not?" Lovely always got to the kernel of truth in a situation.

"I know what it is," she said after a little silence. "Mari ruined him. He's probably slinking away ashamed somewhere. I'm going down to see his mother and make him snap out of it."

And she did go. But Mrs. Hulse, who cleaned offices at night and by day did fine washing for the feminine guests in a nearby hotel, could tell her nothing about Joe. He had disappeared.

"Not getting you's what did it?" Mrs. Hulse said, but without bitterness. Her life had gone beyond bitterness. "He should have stayed with his own kind."

Lovely was touched, and oddly frightened. Joe didn't belong. But as she did she. She had not stayed with her own kind. That night she seemed to want to cleave more safely to the heart of her family.

"If anything should happen to us," she said, "I'd want to die."

"Nothing can, unless we let it," was Roger's reply.

Lovely was charmed and fascinated by Getta as the baby was called. She was a sweet and beautiful miracle for the girl to whom life had suddenly turned such a kind and generous face. Lovely was, in many ways a surprisingly good mother. Her new position seemed to bring to life within her even greater tenderness for helpless creatures. Respect and love for her grew like a well rooted tree in the Cosgrave family.

It was Getta's first Thanksgiving that Aunt Amalia claimed. She had lost her heart to the child.

"I want her Thanksgivings," Amalia said. "Surely you can grant me that much."

And so it was to be a big family dinner at Amalia's that first Thanksgiving of little Getta's life. A strangely assorted family: Marcia and Kar, Roger, the two women who loved him and the daughter one had given him.

And it was that Thanksgiving Katie chose for her wedding to Bill Stark.

Some Movie 'Stills' Are Never Seen

AP Feature Service

The "Hays office" isn't concerned with "moving pictures" alone. The organization for administering the film industry's self-imposed censorship applies just as many rules to "still" shots used for advertising as it does to the movies. The accompanying pictures show how regulations governing portrayal of such things as crime, sex and religion are applied to the "stills." You may see suggestive pictures, but chances are they were taken by free lance photographers, the Hays office explains.

REJECTED

This shot of Mary Beth Hughes was rejected.

PASSED

This one was not so revealing, passed easily.

REJECTED

The Hays office decided Robert Preston was making love to Paulette Goddard here in a too "impetuous" pose.

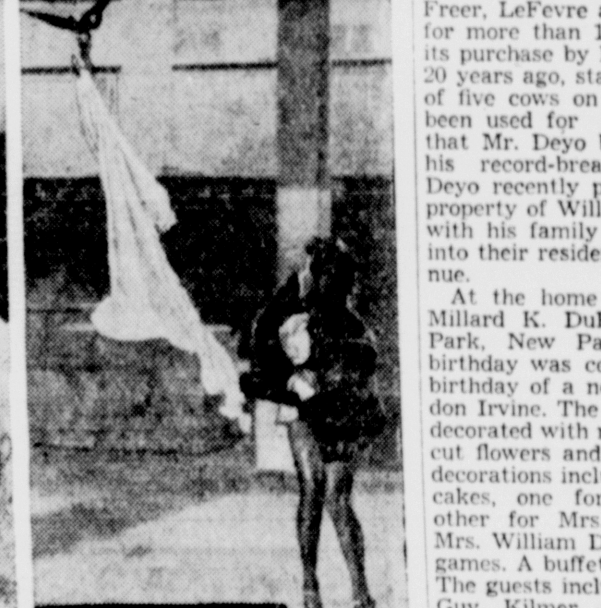

PASSED

A picture of the same pair sitting up like this was permitted. Reclining love scenes are not necessarily taboo.

Most people think the Hays office requires twin beds. It doesn't, but British censors do. Hays office advised producer this still of Merle Oberon and Melvyn Douglas would get by in England.

This still of Mary Martin was passed. It illustrates plot: producer saw legs, gave her a job.

NEW PALTZ

New Palitz, March 4—The Double Forty Club sponsored a surprise shower for Mrs. Alfred Pritchett at the home of Mrs. Frank Gulnac Friday afternoon, February 28. Those attending were Mrs. S. McKeand Kevan, Mrs. Harry Oakley, Mrs. Talcott, Mrs. Ruth Armstrong, Mrs. Adam Koenig, Mrs. Roland Stultz and daughter, Nancy, Mrs. Edward Warner, Mrs. Elton LeFevre, Mrs. Charles Turner, Mrs. Leslie Oakley and daughter, Joan, Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Alvin Beatty, Mrs. Elmer Bostock, Mrs. Frank Gulnac, Mrs. Pritchett and daughter, Janice. Those who could not come but sent gifts were: Miss Margaret Newton, Mrs. Henry Pouchet, Mrs. Lacsion Rhinehart, Miss Bessie Armstrong, Mrs. Raymond Quick, Mrs. Carrie Vail, T. Elliott and Mrs. E. Morrison.

Miss Elaine Kniffer of Phenicia spent Friday night at home with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Barteld observed their 40th wedding anniversary Thursday. They were remembered by friends and neighbors with flowers and cards.

Arnold Peterson has joined his wife at St. Petersburg, Fla., for a vacation.

John McHugh had the misfortune to sprain his ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Deyo, who are on a vacation trip south, plan to visit Ralph Langwick at Fort McClellan, Alabama, on their way home and stop over at Louisville, Kentucky. On their return, to New Palitz they will live in their newly purchased residence on Plattskill avenue (Modena road). Mr. Deyo has been looking forward to retiring since he sold his farm with his famous herd of blue ribbon winners five years ago to Abraham Eller, Mr. Eller persuaded him to stay on as manager. The past year his herd broke all production records ever made by a dairy of its size. The Simon R. LeFevre old place the farm which Mr. Deyo made this wonderful record, had come down in the Freer, LeFevre and Deyo families for more than 100 years prior to its purchase by Mr. Eller. It was 20 years ago, starting with a herd of five cows on land which had been used for general farming, that Mr. Deyo began to develop his record-breaking dairy. Mr. Deyo recently purchased his new property of Willard Jenkins, who with his family will soon move into their residence on Wurts avenue.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Millard K. DuBois in Prospect Park, New Palitz, Washington's birthday was celebrated, also the birthday of a neighbor, Mrs. Gordon Irvine. The DuBois home was decorated with red, white and blue cut flowers and other appropriate decorations including two birthday cakes, one for Washington the other for Mrs. Irvine. Mr. and Mrs. William DuBois directed the games. A buffet supper was served. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kilmer, Lambert Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huntington, the Misses Radie and Georgia Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Quick of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. William DuBois of Long Island and the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Irvine. The party broke up in the early hours of dawn.

Diamond Cutters Become Highest Paid Craftsmen

New York, March 4 (AP)—Diamond cutters today became the highest-paid group of craftsmen in the country under new union scales ranging from $120 for a 35-hour week to $195 weekly.

The increase from last year's $75-to-$135 scale, together with bonus agreements, represents a 60 per cent rise for 450 cutters who because of the war now do most of the world's diamond work.

The agreement, effective a year, was announced yesterday by Jack Baumgold, vice president of a large diamond cutting firm employing 100 cutters. The Diamond Workers' Protective Union, which

WHAT'S IT LIKE IN ARMY LIFE? THESE SOLDIERS ALREADY KNOW THE ANSWERS

PAINT JOB—With sand, spray gun and brown paint, Frank Blauvelt (left) and George Engelbrecht are sanding helmets to prevent glare. They're infantrymen at Fort Dix, N. J.

CALIFORNIA LOG-ROLLING—Logs were sent rolling when a "bulldozer" rammed into a tank obstacle erected of logs near Fort Ord, Cal., to help the 13th engineers show how fast they can clear up roads for the passage of the army's motorized units.

AMATEUR HOURS—Pvt. N. C. Richardson checks map in Washington that keeps track of amateur radio stations in army's amateur network. They send in 22,000 messages a month.

CHIEF—Maj. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, new chief of infantry of U. S. army, can afford to chuckle now over his long-ago failure to graduate at West Point. He formerly commanded infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga.

AIM TO HEAVE, TO SEE—Pvt. Vincent Sachse (left) and Sgt. H. H. Brundage, on M.P. duty in St. Louis, are safe enough from "cocktail" being hurled at Atlanta, Ga. The "cocktail," a gasoline and oil-filled bottle, explodes and spreads fire on hitting a tank.

MEDICAL AID—Seventh Day Adventists' college students training for non-combatant service not forbidden by their religious beliefs, pick up a "casualty" at Takoma Park, D. C.

Three Rejected By Draft Station

Melik, Howard, Robbins Are Sent Back

Three of the 22 men who made up the first March quota of the Kingston draft board were rejected at the army induction station in Albany on Monday afternoon and returned home.

The three rejected, following a rigid physical examination, were: Soss Melik of 30 South Clinton avenue; Francis T. Howard of 7 New street, and Scott Robbins of 32 Gage street.

The first quota for this month left Kingston by bus for Albany shortly after 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The second quota this month of 13 white and three colored men, are slated to leave Kingston on March 17.

This morning 24 draftees were given a physical examination at the American Legion building.

Sudden Temperature Drop Recorded Here

Rain, that froze as fast as it fell, left the sidewalks and streets a glare of ice shortly after 7 o'clock this morning when the official city hall thermometer recorded a drop of 22 degrees in temperature between 5:30 and 8 o'clock.

The highest temperature recorded here yesterday by the official city thermometer was 48 degrees that afternoon. At midnight the reading was 42 degrees, while at 5:30 o'clock this morning the mercury had risen to 46 degrees. Then the weather suddenly turned cold and the mercury was driven to a low of 24 degrees at 8 o'clock this morning.

With the dropping temperature the rain that was falling turned to snow, and flurries fell throughout the early morning hours. So slippery were the streets that the public works board ordered out the sanding crews to sand down the hills and dangerous street intersections.

Three Cases Announced Settled in Supreme Court

Three cases were announced settled Monday afternoon in Supreme Court when Justice Bergan called the calendar and made up day calendar of ready cases.

The first case on the ready calendar, No. 237, Jacob Kramer, against Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., an action to recover disability benefits under insurance policy, was settled, Joseph Avis for plaintiff and Wiswall, Walton, Wood and MacAffer for the defendant.

A negligence action brought by Joseph McIssacs against Dorothy Mottelson and Samuel Saul, was also settled, John A. Bonomi for plaintiff and Coleman, Clarke and Reilly for defendants.

A second negligence action, Willett C. Overbaugh against John McPhail and another, was also settled, Morris Rosenblum for plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for defendant.

An action to recover for personal injuries suffered in an accident near Malden last summer was marked ready for trial at the opening of court this morning.

Fred Childs of West Point brings an action in negligence against Harold F. Burton, Elmer H. Nathan for plaintiff and Ernest L. Schirmer for defendant.

All Day Meeting

High Falls, March 4—The Ladies' Aid of the High Falls Reformed Church will hold an all-day meeting in the basement of the church on Thursday, March 6. At noon a meat dinner will be served to the public.

Old Custom Ditched

In line with the changing times the merchants of Kanazawa, Japan, discarded the 300-year traditional custom of opening their shops simultaneously with the setting of fireworks at 12 a. m. following the Japanese New Year. They opened their shops the following day as on ordinary days.

To Show Lenten Slides Of Washington Cathedral

At the special Lenten service Wednesday evening at 7:30 at St. John's Episcopal Church, the rector will show beautiful lantern slides of the Washington Cathedral which he visited a few weeks ago.

In 1893, Congress granted a charter to the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia, authorizing the building of the cathedral and institutions of learning for the promotion of religion and education and charity.

When completed, the cathedral will afford standing room for 27,000 people at great national thanksgiving services and chairs for congregations of more than 8,000 worshippers.

The slides to be shown will be an inclusive pilgrimage through the cathedral from top to bottom, and will give a fairly complete general knowledge of this national monument.

The Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, said recently: "Our first line of defense is the moral integrity of our people. Greater than battleships and standing armies, stronger and more effective than a progressive and expanding commerce is the stabilizing influence of spiritual ideals. These ideals must be eloquently interpreted in a way that will arrest and command a hearing. This the cathedral more than any other building in the capital is designed to do. A new crusade is at hand. America accepts the challenge of an apostate age. It rears its majestic temple as an affirmation of its faith. America must be true to its Christian ideals."

New York state has been in the tree-planting business for nearly 40 years, and by the end of 1940 nearly half-a-billion trees had been sent out from the state nurseries to reforest state, community, and private lands throughout the state.

Incorporation Certificate Filed With Clerk

Kingston Motors, Inc., have filed a certificate of incorporation with the state and a duplicate has been filed in the office of the county clerk. The corporation is formed to deal in motor vehicles, etc., and its principal office is located in Kingston.

The company is authorized to start business with 100 shares of preferred stock of par value of $25 a share and 175 no par common stock shares. Under the certificate the corporation may have not more than three or more than nine directors and the directors named in the petition are W. Kenneth Skidmore of 121 Fair street, Viola K. Skidmore of 167 Tremper avenue, and Stanley E. Chase of Box 235, Albany avenue extension, Kingston.

The Kingston Motor Corp., which took over the agency of Packard Motors on Saturday, March 1, will have sales service for this territory as was announced today.

HOME BUREAU

To Hold Style Show

On Saturday, March 8, at the Kingston Clinton Hotel at 2 p. m., the Kingston Home Bureau will hold a simple fashion show of spring wardrobe for 1941.

The garments have been made especially for the New York State Extension Service by nationally known fabric, dress and pattern manufacturers. The designs in pattern and will serve as an excellent guide to homemakers in seasonal selection both ready to wear models and pattern garments will be shown. Mrs. Ray LeFevre, county clothing and grooming leader, will have charge of the fashion show.

Of equal interest will be the exhibit of braided rugs, about forty of which will be on display. Women who like to work with their hands will find here a splendid way of using cast off clothes to good advantage. These rugs are articles of beauty as well as utility. Mrs. David DuBois, county housing leader, has charge of the rug exhibit.

Size of Papers Cut

London, March 4 (AP)—British newspapers announced today they had agreed to publish only four-page papers two days a week, so as to conserve newsprint. On the other days, they will remain at six pages. Under the agreement, the London Times, Sunday papers will be limited to 10 pages, instead of 12.

Truancy Record Made

Blantyre is being given the doubtful honor of having the worst truants in Scotland. Fifteen parents representing 19 children were recently called before the Schools Management Committee. One thirteen-year-old boy had attended school only 14 out of 118 school days, and boldly went back to his classroom and demanded that his younger brother be released to play truant with him.

anized forces in a second skirmish in the Libyan desert. "A German detachment clashed with enemy armored formations, putting them to flight and capturing prisoners and war materials," the Italian communique said. "A German motorized scouting troop advancing along the Libyan coast again took prisoners and captured a British tank," said the German communique.

In connection with the first clash, on February 24, the British said they drove the Germans off the main column of imperial troops. Premier Mussolini's high command also reported that British troops made a series of mass attacks on the Italian garrison at Garabub Oasis, Libya, and called on the Fascists to surrender. "Our Garrison replied with artillery fire," the communique declared. The British said about 140,000 Italians have been taken prisoner so far in the African conflict. British troops were reported to have seized two more Fascist strongholds in Somaliland in a swift drive toward the Ethiopian frontier. A British war bulletin said the main column of imperial troops had captured 10,000 troops and occupied Iscia Balido, 140 miles northwest of fallen Mogadiscio, the capital of Somaliland, and Bulburti, nearby.

Dealers Hold Meeting and Discuss Situation

The question of the price to be asked for Grade A pasteurized milk was discussed at length Monday evening at a meeting of the local milk dealers at the Beatty dairy and at the close of the meeting it was announced that the milk dealers would have a statement ready shortly for publication.

It is understood that the statement will be submitted today to Mayor C. J. Heiselman, as president of the Board of Health, before it is released for publication. From what could be learned, however, it is expected that on and after May 1, when the new state milk provision goes into effect, banning Grade B pasteurized milk, that the Grade A milk to be sold here will retail at 14 cents a quart, the same price now asked for Grade B.

However, many of the dealers plan to get a grade of milk with a greater butter fat content which will be sold at the present price for Grade A pasteurized which is 16 cents a quart for patrons who desire a richer milk content. The Grade A milk to be sold at 14 cents, however, will meet the state requirements for Grade A.

Balkan Situation Blamed for Big Decline Monday

Stock averages had their largest decline in some time Monday, after a fair show of firmness in early dealings, with transactions for the day remaining at a moderate level, 333,480 shares. Increased seriousness in the Balkan situation was sufficient to bring on selling and discourage any inclination to buy, despite the high level of business operations.

In the Dow-Jones averages, industrial stocks lost nearly a point, being off .98 for the day to close at 120.88. Rails dropped .28, to 27.32 and utilities declined .26, to 19.25.

Rumors of additional liquidation of British securities, with announcement that a syndicate planned to offer 200,000 shares of U. S. Steel at the close of the exchange today, if conditions warranted, helped to depress the market. U. S. Steel led the list of most active stocks and lost 1 1/2 points in turnover of 11,200 shares, to close at 56 1/2. Republic Steel, another active, dropped 3/4. With the exception of Pure Oil, which closed unchanged, all stocks on the most active list showed minus signs for the day.

The showing made by steel issues was in face of the announcement that operations this week are scheduled at 97.5 per cent of theoretical capacity, a record rate of operation and an advance of 1.2 points over last week. At the same time sales are breaking records and are estimated at around 150 per cent of capacity.

Although spot commodities were firm Monday the futures markets failed to hold early advances and the futures index dropped 0.10 point for the day. Cotton futures were unchanged to three points. Wheat closed with losses of 3/4 to 1 1/4 cents a bushel. National Sugar Refining Co. advanced its list price to a firm basis of 4.65 cents a pound, for immediate shipment only. Has been quoted 4.55. Movement expected to become general. The S. C. in approving the Commonwealth & Southern and Georgia Power Co. refinancing programs, said that at request of Commonwealth & Southern it would issue shortly a statement of its tentative conclusions as to what action it believes should be taken by this holding company system to comply with the statutory requirements.

At congressional hearings Secretary of Agriculture Wickard declined to endorse price-fixing "unofficially" and opposed reorganization of the AAA, as recommended by the Farm Bureau. Consolidated net income of the American Telephone & Telegraph and principal subsidiaries reached a new peak in 1940, totaling $210,497,453, equal to $11.26 a share on the parent company's 18,686,794 capital shares. Compares with $10.18 a share in 1939.

High Esteem Held for Cat in Ancient Europe

The cat has been wrapped up very closely in the life of man, as a brief journey through ancient Europe would indicate.

The creature seems first to have appeared in Africa, although Persians and Angoras are Asiatic, and our own "Tabby," tamest of the tame, got her stripes from a strain of European wildcat.

But the cat was first domesticated in ancient Egypt. In some regions in the ancient world it was regarded with the deepest reverence. At death it was mourned with elaborate symbols. If killed, its murderer was handed over to a furious mob to be beaten to death.

One Roman emperor foolishly insulted an Egyptian cat. He started an insurrection. And the Persian king, Cambyses, fighting the Egyptians, was smart enough to have his soldiers use living cats as shields. The Egyptians, rather than hurt the sacred beasts, let themselves be captured.

In Damascus, a cat hospital was built in honor of Mohammed's cat. He was so fond of the little thing, which had a habit of sleeping in his sleeve, that once, rather than disturb her, he cut his sleeve off.

Stored Grain Pests

Stored grain pests appear to be no more abundant now than for several years.

If the grain is found infested but is dry and in good shape and is to be kept for a period of time, it should be fumigated with a material that will kill the pests. For bins where there are no electric wires nor other sources of sparks and fires, carbon disulphide is recommended. But for bins where the fire hazard can not be controlled, mixtures which are less effective but safer to handle should be used. Carbon disulphide is cheaper than other such materials but must be handled carefully. Carelessness in striking metal against metal, using lighted matches or in handling any of the equipment will end in serious results with the use of carbon disulphide.

Three to five gallons of carbon disulphide are used per 1,000 bushels of grain or for every 1,000 cubic feet of bin space.

The Farm Price Level

According to the latest index of the Department of Agriculture, prices received by farmers at local markets throughout the country, as of January 15, averaged 104 per cent of the 1909-14 level. Prices paid by farmers, excluding interest and taxes, averaged 123 per cent giving the farm dollar a buying power of 85 cents.

New York farm families will strive this year for a better living from the farm, through an abundant use of home-grown foods and the growing of essential feeds for livestock.

Registration Date On Auto Licenses May Be Changed

Albany, N. Y., March 4 (AP)—Deferment of the passenger automobile registration date from February 1 to April 1 won approval today of New York's legislature.

The measure which went to Governor Lehman also would require registration of buses and taxicabs before February 1 and trucks and other commercial vehicles by March 1.

Purpose of the proposed statute, its sponsor, Assemblyman George B. Parson, Onondaga Republican, said, is to provide a more convenient time for motorists to pay registration fees and also to permit an increase of $1-500,000 in state revenue by increasing gasoline consumption.

Parson explained many motorists cannot spare the cash to buy licenses immediately after Christmas and first of the year bills. He said many of them keep cars in storage the first months of the year which results in less gasoline consumption and lower gasoline tax receipts.

Ruffled Curtains Lend Charm

If you are considering a change of curtains for any room in your house, it is well to see that your choice is in keeping with the character of the room. With or without draperies, ruffled curtains give a pleasant look to an informal room. Tailored curtains of rayon or cotton will cut out unpleasant views and present a simple, dignified appearance. With few exceptions, these should be used with overdraperies.

Length is merely a matter of choice. Your curtains may extend to the window sill, the apron beneath the sill, the top of the baseboard or the floor.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Tampa, Fla.—Possibly as a part of the campaign to get Ernie Lombardi to sign his contract, Manager Bill McKechnie of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds is predicting a bright catching future for Rookie Dick West.

Anaheim, Calif.—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics rejoiced today at news that Wally Moses' injured shoulder is not dislocated. The fleet outfielder returned from a visit to a Los Angeles physician, who was unable to find any signs of a dislocation. "He told me to use my own judgment and start playing when the arm felt okay again," said Moses, who was hurt in an accident enroute to camp.

Avalon, Calif.—Lou Novikoff, rookie outfielder who signed a Chicago Cub contract only Sunday, already is a regular. The eccentric slugger will play left field for the varsity in the first squad game Wednesday. Today will be his first real workout.

Gordon Plays First St. Petersburg, Fla.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees claims his shift of Joe Gordon from second base to first will give the club additional speed on defense and power on attack.

Cycle Rickshaw Appears
Rickshaws in Japan may give way to the tricycle taxi. The inventor, Y. Tomazawa, has applied to Tokyo authorities for permission to operate a tricycle passenger service. His tricycles resemble rickshaws. Instead of a puller, the front part of a bicycle is attached to the chassis, the operator pedalling his fares to their destination.

Light Shooting Bill
Lorain, O. (P)—Lorain public service officials estimate that small boys with air rifles cost the company $2,500 a year in replacements for street lights and glass insulators. The toll is heaviest right after Christmas when the new air rifles are first in use, they reported.

Kelly, Flowers and Wagner Will Remain on Lines for Bucs; All Have Shown Value

In his second season as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Frank Frisch intends to carry on with his original staff of coaches. His decision did not come as a surprise to baseball men, as it is generally admitted that no club in the country has a smarter or more capable board of strategy than the Buccaneers possess in Mike Kelly, Jake Flowers and Honus Wagner.

An ideal combination to work with the able Frisch and help him to shape and execute his plans of battle throughout the pennant wars of 1941. What those four old heads don't know about baseball isn't worth knowing.

Manager Frisch, himself a strategist without a superior and with few equals, selected a couple of ideal aides when he picked Kelly and Flowers a year ago to join Wagner as lieutenants to the Buccaneer skipper. Wagner, of course, was an old holdover. He is part of Pittsburgh's baseball tradition, and without him the Pirate picture would not be complete. This is his ninth consecutive season as a Corsair coach, and his 30th campaign as player and coach in the National League.

Wagner Is Veteran
In his 18 years as an active player in the Pittsburgh lineup, Honus served under three managers—Fred Clarke, Jimmy Callahan and Hugo Bezdek. He has also coached under three players—George Gibson, Pie Traynor, and now Frisch.

Any time a man is given a second opportunity as a coach in the major leagues, it is convincing evidence that he has the goods. In other words, when he is taken on by a second club, it is an indication that he proved his ability beyond question while serving his first team in the same capacity.

Moreover, Kelly, whose first name incidentally isn't Mike at all but Bernard, has served in not only one of the big leagues, but both. He coached the Chicago White Sox under Manager Donie Bush in 1930, and before hooking up with the Bucs he was a coach for the Boston Bees under Casey Stengel.

Kelly also had a notably successful career as a manager of some of the best Double A clubs in the country after the termination of his playing days. Quite an ideally equipped man for the post he now holds, Kelly directs the traffic at third base for the Bucs, while Flowers coaches at first base.

Flowers, for whom Jake is only a nickname to take the place of D'Arcy, also has been brilliantly successful as a handler of minor league clubs since his major league playing days as a Grade A infielder and hitter for the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals. He was in two World Series as a Cardinal in 1926 and 1931. Manager Frisch played with him in St. Louis in 1931 and 1932, therefore knows what he can do, and has a lot of confidence in him.

After retiring as a player, Jake became an outstanding success as a minor league manager, even to the point of winning an award by vote as the best pilot in the minor leagues for one particular season.

Harder Is Pleased
Fort Myers, Fla.—Although Mel Harder, Cleveland's veteran right-hander, gave seven runs in two innings in his first intra-squad game, he is pleased about the condition of his arm. For several years, he has been bothered by stiffness and hasn't been able to win until the weather became hot. Manager Roger Peckinpaugh discounted the hits Mel gave, saying "he was just trying out his arm."

Miami Beach, Fla.—Doc Prothro, the Phillies' manager, disclosed today that Frankie Frisch, Pittsburgh's pilot, has been trying to trade outfielder Floyd Young to one of the Phils' pitchers. "What does Frisch think I could do with Young?" Prothro wondered.

Luque Coaches Giants
Miami, Fla.—The New York Giants lost all their games in Havana, but they came out ahead on the trip to the extent of one coach. Adolfo Luque, who quit as a coach after the 1937 season, made up his differences with the club during the visit and signed again.

Fordham Mentor Is First New York Coach to Get Appointment; Teams Have Great Record
Jimmy Crowley, head football coach of the Fordham Rams, has been appointed to direct the 1941 Eastern College All-Stars for their annual game with the New York Giants, professionals of the National Football League, at the Polo Grounds September 3 or 4. The game, as usual, will be played for the benefit of the Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

Crowley, a member of the famous Four Horsemen under the coaching of the late Knute Rockne and coach of the Rose Hill Rams since 1933, is the first New York mentor to be chosen as the coach of the Eastern All Stars in this annual football clash. "Sleepy Jim" replaces Tuss McLaughry of last year.

When he was appointed and later accepted the choice, Crowley first asked for the list of college players who will be graduating in June and will therefore be eligible for the September contest. Jim looked at it and said "What a ball club. I wish we could bring work tomorrow."

Since coming to Fordham in 1933 from Michigan State the Rams have won 65, lost 17 and tied seven. Crowley's team of 1940 gained glory by participating in the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas, Tex. Before Frank Leahy was appointed coach at Notre Dame Crowley was being considered.

However, it was discovered later that Taisto Maki of Finland ran two miles in 8:53.2 in September, 1939. This figure has not been recognized officially, but Rice wants to clip three seconds off his best time to settle the matter for good.

Entries for the Cleveland meet, patterned after the famous K. of C. events in New York and Boston, close Friday. So far Rice's competition includes three top-notch runners—Forest Eflaw of Oklahoma A. & M., Tommy Deckard, Olympic star and former 3,000 meter champion, and Joe McCluskey, two-mile steeplechase titlist.

Bowling authorities estimate that more than 3,000,000 women are bowling this winter. The question of fashion was bound to come up. And it did, recently, in a controversy over skirts as against shorts. The Women's International Bowling Congress finally banned shorts. Here Evelyn Lynne (right) and Nancy Martin, radio performers, give you a chance to judge that decision.

Bill Terry Moves Orenco Into Billy Jurges' Post

New York, March 4 (AP)—With Bill Jurges a big question mark, the Giants may try to get Frankie Crosetti from the Yanks, or Johnny Hudson from the Braves. . . . Joe Louis' managers are censoring Billy Conn's future opponents—they don't want to risk losing Conn before June 14 via a surprise setback. . . . Lou McKenna (who used to be a newspaper man and a good one) has been elevated from business manager to general manager of the St. Paul ball club. . . . Joe Kirkwood, the old trick shot artist, is at Nassau giving lessons to the Duchess of Windsor, no less. . . . Billy Soose and Ernie Vigh, who do an encore Friday night, are training in the same gym here.

So, what shaped up as a pretty good ball club with Jurges at shortstop now looks like a team without an infield.

Jurges suffered a recurrence of dizziness while the Giants were in Havana the past week-end. "The attack was the worst I've experienced since I was hit last June," he said. "The nerves in my fingers went dead, and my left ear also went completely numb. That was a new sensation, and I don't know what to do, but I'll follow whatever Bill Terry advises."

Terry's advice, the manager told newsmen, is for Jurges to go to New York for further examination, or, if he prefers, the club will send him to Rochester, Minn.

"I recommended that if an operation is considered necessary, he have it done by the physician in whom he feels the most confidence," Terry explained. "I also impressed upon him that it was useless for us to go along the way we have, so long as he is still subject to these attacks."

More Trouble in Ear
But Jurges isn't sure an operation would effect a cure. Dr. J. Lawrence Pool, who treated him during the winter, believes the trouble centers in a nerve in his left ear, and that if this nerve were severed, Jurges would become normal again, but would lose the hearing in that ear.

"That would probably happen," Jurges declared, "but the doctor isn't positive."

Terry's first step to patch up his shattered infield was to turn over the shortstop to Joe Orenco, former St. Louis Cardinal who hasn't signed his contract. Orenco worked well in practice yesterday with second-baseman Burgess Whitehead, also a holdout. Joe has tried nearly every infield spot and figures he's best at short.

This move, however, means Lou Chiozza would have to play third, and he's never shown up especially well there.

Terry may try a trade, of course, but he hasn't much hope of picking up an established star. The Giants have neither the players nor the money to swing such a deal, he says.

Hospital Plan Gains

Associated Hospital Service payments to hospitals for the care of subscribers reached a total of $25,000,000 last night when Dr. S. S. Goldwater, president of the non-profit three-cents-a-day plan, handed a check for $125,500 to former Governor Alfred E. Smith, a trustee of Beekman Hospital. Mr. Smith received payment for plan services rendered by Beekman Hospital at three-cents-a-day plan headquarters, 370 Lexington avenue, where cancelled checks representing $25,000,000 in prepaid community health services were on display.

The way a person feels is related to the quality of his sleep the previous night, a recent study of more than 500 persons shows, as little as six and three-quarters hours of good sleep was found to be better than eight or more hours of poor sleep.

Service on Wednesday At Trinity Lutheran

The second mid-week Lenten service will be held in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring street, on Wednesday, March 5, at 7:30 p. m. The pastor, the Rev. F. L. Gollnick, will preach the second of a series of sermons on the Last Words of the Cross. His theme will be: "With Me in Paradise!" The combined junior and senior choirs under the direction of the church choir-master, Roger Baer, will render the anthem "St. Andrew of Crete" by John B. Dykes. This is one of the greatest Lenten chorals of the historic church. Immediately after the service, the junior and senior choirs will hold their rehearsals. The adult confirmation class will also meet after the church service. A cordial invitation to the community at large is extended to share in these Lenten services.

William McVey Is Second in K.H.S. Tests

Howard R. St. John, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. St. John of Linderman avenue, will represent Kingston High School in the fourth annual Ulster County Legion Oratorical Contest in the municipal auditorium April 4. St. John won the city contest held in the high school auditorium Monday afternoon with the topic, "Threats to Our Liberty."

William J. McVey, Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. William J. McVey of Tremper avenue, placed second in the contest. Cash awards of $10 and $5 were presented to the winners by H. L. Kirchner, chairman of the Legion Oratorical committee and past commander of the Ulster County Legion.

Judges were the Rev. William F. Jenks, C.S.R., professor of sacred eloquence at Mt. St. Alphonsus, Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman and Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw.

William McVey's topic was "The Origin of Our Constitution." Other contestants and their topics were Donald Dumm, "The Citizen and His Privileges Under the Constitution"; Marilyn Beichert, "The Constitutional Convention"; and Wolfram Locker, "The Constitution and Our Rights."

High school winners in the county contest will compete to determine the contestant for the district contest.

Dewey's Office Says

Prostitution Ring Broken

New York, March 4 (AP)—Simultaneous raids on 10 Manhattan locations were credited by the district attorney's office today with having halted quickly an organized prostitution syndicate allegedly run by two former henchmen of Charles (Lucky) Luciano, one-time vice overlord of New York.

The arrests yesterday of Joseph Weintraub, 34, and Peter Baltzer, 38, alias Pete Harris, together with 21 women held as material witnesses against them, was disclosed early today by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey's office said the ring had been operating a month on the style of the huge syndicate once run by Luciano, now imprisoned, and that Weintraub and Baltzer were getting a 10 percent cut on earnings of girls booked at various locations. Both prisoners were charged with compulsory prostitution.

No Further Additions

No further additions will be made to the day calendar in Supreme Court until Thursday morning. Justice Bergan announced this morning at the call of the calendar. Further additions will be made Thursday morning. Selection of a jury in the negligence action brought by Fred Childs against Harold E. Burton was taken up following the call of the calendar. Childs sues for injuries suffered in an accident last summer near Malden. The day calendar is: No. 248 on trial, No. 56 to be ready Wednesday morning, 91, 100, 112, 129, 138 and 11.

KLEMPERER RELEASED BY POLICE

Dr. Otto Klemperer (left), 55-year-old conductor composer, prepares to leave Morristown, N. J., police headquarters after 36 hours of detention. Police Chief Fred A. Roff said Klemperer had been adjudged normal by a psychiatrist. The musician was taken into custody after a nine-state alarm asking for his detention had been broadcast by Rye, N. Y., police. With Klemperer are his wife, Joanna (center), Dr. Hurman Weiss, and Klemperer's daughter, Lottie.

Plank Road Dog Is Found Rabid

Case Is First Reported in Town of Ulster

Another case of rabies among dogs has been reported in the vicinity of Kingston. The latest case reported is a dog owned by a family on the Plank road in the town of Ulster. This is the first case to be reported in that township.

The town of Ulster was placed under quarantine in February at the same time that the quarantine was clamped down on the city owing to the discovery of two rabid dogs here, one on Hurley avenue and the other on Howland avenue.

The reporting of the case of rabies in the town of Ulster brings the number of cases reported recently in Kingston and vicinity to four; two of them in Kingston; one in Ulster and the other in Binnewater in the town of Rosendale.

The case in the town of Ulster was a dog that had been attended by Dr. Philip Poley, meat inspector of the city health department, and when the animal died he sent the head to the state laboratory for testing. The test showed that it was a positive case of rabies.

Lutheran Service

The second mid-week Lenten service will be held in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street on Wednesday evening, March 5, at 7:30 o'clock. The theme of the meditation will be "Watch and Pray." The organist, George Weil, will present several Lenten selections in a recital beginning at 7:15.

India Supplies Canvas

To meet the position created by the acute world shortage of flax, India has supplied to the United Kingdom over 5,000,000 yards of cotton canvas and over 3,000,000 yards of cotton jute union fabric. Simla reports that the last named is an entirely new type of fabric evolved and developed by the Indian Defense Department and Supply Department. India also has supplied canvas and fabric to its own defense services.
